

Customer requirements – Signal processing

1. The system must be able to read a signal of voltage from the excel file, filter the signal to remove high frequencies and apply fast Fourier transform to both original and filtered signal, finally to show four graphs in a single window and save the image.
2. The process previously described must be repeated with fifteen different files with voltage information, the expectation is that the results are very similar in all tests.